

Forecast For Northeast England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Thursday 01 Apr 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Drastically colder today compared to Wednesday.

Today:
Feeling markedly colder today, compared to Wednesday, especially along the North Sea coast with a chilly breeze. The highest temperatures will be inland, across western areas. Dry everywhere and often cloudy, but some sunny spells will occur, particularly this afternoon. Maximum temperature 9 deg C (48 deg F).

Tonight:
The wind will become light and long clear periods will develop, leading to a chilly night. There is a chance of a slight frost in some rural locations. Minimum temperature 0 deg C (32 deg F).

Friday:
Starting chilly but largely sunny. Through the day cloud will build, but still some sunny spells will occur. Feeling rather cold, especially along the coast where a brisk breeze develops. Maximum temperature 10 deg C (50 deg F).

Outlook for Saturday to Monday:
Saturday often large amounts of cloud, but also sunny spells. Sunday frosty start then bright morning, before rain, hill snow and strengthening winds spread south. Monday cold, windy, wintry showers.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.